This application is a CON of 10/179,747, which is a CON of 08/952,350 and claims 1-2 are now pending.

Specification

1. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the term “interchangeable” does not appear in the disclosure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The recitation of “an interchangeable optical disk drive motor” constitutes new matter. No where in the originally filed disclosure is it described that the motor is “interchangeable”.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2652

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yoshitoshi et al (US 4,731,777) in view of Hannah et al (US 5,829,318). In so far as the claims are described in the specification, (as per claim 1 and similarly for claim 2) Yoshitoshi et al discloses an optical disk player which readily loads/unloads an interchangeable optical disk, as shown in at least FIGs. 1 & 4, including a motor/rotor 3 to rotate the disc. Yoshitoshi et al, however, remains silent as to a balancer mounted rotatably with the optical disk.

Hannah et al discloses a motor/rotor as shown in FIGs. 1-2, for example, including: a balancer mounted rotatably with a rotor, and having a hollow ring member 34 containing therein a rotatable balancing member 40, and having a center axis positioned substantially concentrically with a rotational center axis of said motor and/or mounted in an integral fashion with the spindle shaft 32. Hannah et al discusses the need for balancing in a rotational device.

From this teaching, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided the favorable balancing characteristics as taught by Hannah et al into the motor device 3 of Yoshitoshi et al.

The motivation would have been: reducing any rotating unbalance and mechanical vibration of the motor/rotor would provide consistent input/output for the optical head, as would have been evident to a skilled artisan.

It is considered that the motor could be considered interchangeable as well, i.e., if the motor was broken, another, similar motor could be interchanged for it, as would have been realized by a skilled artisan.

Response to Amendments/Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 2/22/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

A...It is noted first that the claim language is considered to introduce new matter into the application, as described in the newly set forth 112 first paragraph rejection, supra. The scope of the claim(s) were difficult to ascertain in view of this newly added material. Furthermore, the arguments are not commensurate with how the present claims have been written.

B...In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references (see Remarks, pages 6-7), the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation for the rejection is considered to be found in the Hannah reference such that it is stated “[T]his invention relates to a balancing method and apparatus and, more particularly, to a balancing method and apparatus used for dynamically balancing an out of balance condition in a rotating body." (see col. 1, lines 21-24).

Combined with the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art, it is considered that such teaching by Hannah would lead a skilled artisan to use such an apparatus in a disk drive environment.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
